To whom it may concern,

I've been working with Joe on the Digital that Delivers programme and he's been great to have on the team.

He's really solid when it comes to keeping projects moving, especially with the amount of moving parts we're dealing with, businesses, agencies, timelines, the lot. He's very easy to work with, keeps things clear and straightforward and just gets on with it without any fuss.

What I like most is how approachable and collaborative he is. Whether it's internal or external stakeholders, he handles everything in a calm and focused way, which makes a big difference on busy projects.

All round, Joe's just very dependable and someone you're glad to have involved.
